COVER: Lifting the cod end of a trawl net full of Pacific ocean perch onto the deck of the M/V Tordenskjold off southeastern Alaska in 1957. The Tordenskjold, a Seattle commercial trawler chartered by the U. S. Bureau of Commercial Fisheries, and the Bureau's exploratory fishing vessel John N. Cobb explored for commercial quantities of bottom fish off southeastern Alaska in the fall of 1956 and the spring of 1957 (see p. 9 of this issue).
