FIVE-FOOT SARDINE SANDWICH AT NATIONAL BOY SCOUT JAMBOREE

A gigantic Maine sardine sandwich designed to provide a meal for 77 persons was a highlight of the National Boy Scout Jamboree, Colorado Springs, Colo. The colorful seafood spectacular was concocted by Troop 72 of the Maine Pine Tree Council as its project in the week-long Skill-O-Rama which is a feature of the 60,000-boy encampment.

Troops from all sections of the country vie for honors as they perform feats of science, art, cookery, and other activities.

The sandwich was assembled as a three-decker with a five-foot loaf of bread made by a Portland, Maine, baking firm and shipped by air to the site. The filling consisted of mustard butter on the bread, chopped lettuce, sliced green peppers, sliced tomatoes and raw onions, and whole sardines. It was originated by the Maine Sardine Council's home economist.

The sandwich was quickly eaten by 75 scouts and visiting onlookers.
